BODEGAS LA HORRA

CORIMBO 2021 || 93 points

“The 2021 Corimbo was produced with Tinto Fino from vines between 25 and 30 years of age, from small plots in La Horra, Roa and other villages around them, and it fermented in French oak vat and matured for 14 months in oak barrels, 80% French and 20% American. It comes in at 14.5% alcohol, with a pH of 3.72 and 4.9 grams of acidity. It’s higher pitched than the 2022 that I tasted next to it: it has an herbal hint that provides freshness, the tannins have a different quality here, and the ripeness is better here.”

CORIMBO 2022 || 92 points

“Tasted along with the 2021, the 2022 Corimbo was produced with Tinto Fino from vines between 25 and 30 years of age, from small plots in La Horra, Roa and other villages around them but from a much warmer and drier year. It fermented in stainless steel vats and matured for 14 months in oak barrels, 80% French and 20% American. It has notes of ripe berry fruit, aromatic herbs and a spicy twist. It comes in at 14.5% alcohol, with a pH of 3.66 and 5.3 grams of acidity and has abundant, slightly dusty tannins.”

CORIMBO I 2019 || (93-95) points

“The 2019 Corimbo I was selected from vines over 60 years of age, fermented in French oak vat and matured for 16 months in oak barrels, 80% French and 20% American. It comes in at 14.5% alcohol, with a pH of 3.65 and 5.4 grams of acidity. There’s more stuffing, concentration and depth here, because of the vintage and the age of the vines. It’s powerful and generously oaked, modern, clean and nicely crafted. This is one that will age in bottle.”
